"The interior garden, the landscaping and siting of the building to allow just the right light, create the connection between the indoors and outdoors and desired appreciation of nature."

/ Dr. Randall A. Oyer
Oncologist + Medical Director of the Cancer Institute

/ Nature should be integrated throughout the clinical environment

/ Communities benefit through shared assets such as green roofs and the connection to natural systems

/ In addition to natural views, design can bring a salutogenic environment through artwork and imagery

/ The design can embrace the social return on investment for patients, families, staff, and community
